

THE BIG WIDE WORLD

So you've graduated – congratulations! Now is the time when you have to go into the big wide world and make a career for yourself, becoming a small fish in a gigantic pool (whereas you may have been a comparatively large fish in a small pool, while you were training).

Use this form to evaluate how far you've come during your training, the things you still need to improve, to set goals and remind you of those people you've met along the way, who might be useful contacts for the future.

The most important things I learned while studying: _____

The strengths and skills I gained: _____

What I still need to work on improving: _____

The types of work I am now most equipped to do: _____

My ideal typecasting is: _____

People I have met, worked with or who saw me perform who could be useful:

Name:	What they do:	Things I will remember about them:
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

People I could turn to for advice or help if I have a problem:

Name:	How I know them:	Contact details:
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

3 companies or productions which would suit my type and talents which I am going to target for an audition and work:

Company / Production:	Casting contact:	Strategy:
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

5 goals that are realistic and I want to have achieved by _____ 20____ (one year from today's date):

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

In 5 years time, I want to be... _____
